A number of Germans held a meeting at the Casino, on Adams street, last night for the purpose of considering a peace featival for Memphis. J. Gronauer was in the chair. D. Paute was selected as Vice President, and F. W. Battinghaus as Secretary. Some speaking was done, and the tol-lowing resolution was adopted: That we celebrate a peace jubilee by a torch-light procession, if possible, on the same day when the same is celebrated roughout the United States, if not on he day after the news of peace shall have been received in Memphis. If on Sun-day, the celebration to take place on the wing Monday, The following committee was appointed praise funds: L. Rossheer, W. Miller, G. A. Ecker-

y, F. Rawelaky, D. Panse and F. W. Butnghaus.
The following Committee of Arrangeents was appointed, to procure torches, L. Roescher, J. L. Eichberg, A. Lotza, J. cht and P. Hoen. All German societies will participate. E. Ackerman, Chairman of the War committee that was appointed some nonths ago, gave notice that he was the roper authority to call such meeting as to present, and there was no necessity the present, and there was no necessity for any new society or organization for peace purposes. He and his Treasurer, Mr. Eckerly, had all the necessary means, he said, for carrying the thing through. This multiplication of elaborate and expensive machinery was no use. He would not sanction the meeting nor indorse its proceedings at all. He said he was elected by sighty-five men and he represented eighty-five men, and he represented them yet.

The gentlemen managers of the meeting suggested he had been appointed for war purposes, that his mission had been fulfilled. This was a peace institution, a different thing altogether from the object he had been appointed to effect.
